REPORT ON MONITORING THE THEMATIC DIRECTIONS OF ARMENIAN MEDIA

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

THE MONITORING of the thematic directions of Armenian media was implemented by Yerevan Press Club under “Alternative Resources in Media” project, supported by USAID.

Through the analysis of quantitative data obtained the monitoring aim at:

- providing data for the comparative analysis with the administered in parallel sociological research, defining how the thematic coverage and the media interest towards it reflect their real public significance and correspond to the audience demands;
- determining the level of the diversity in media, particularly focusing on their thematic coverage.

The monitoring covered 12 media in Armenia - seven TV channels, two newspapers and three online publications:

- 6 national TV channels - First Channel of Public Television of Armenia, “Armenia”, Second Armenian TV Channel, “Yerkir Media”, “Kentron”, “Shant”;
- 1 TV channel of Yerevan - “Shoghakat”;
- 2 national newspapers- “Aravot” and the Russian language “Golos Armenii” (their online versions);
- 3 news portals – 1in.am (<http://1in.am>), Lragir.am (<http://www.lragir.am>), Panorama.am (<http://www.panorama.am>).

The timeframes for the monitoring were one month and a half during February 1 - March 15, 2011.

The monitoring object in broadcast media were all the programs, aired by the TV channels above within 10.00-02.00, except commercial/political/social advertising and classifieds, announcements between TV programs, “pure” video recordings (with no wordings) and creeping lines. At the same time were differentiated and studied separately: news/news and comment programs; current affairs/discussion programs and all other programs of diverse profiles (see below).

The monitoring object in print and online media were all the pieces of the abovementioned newspapers’ Internet versions and online publications, archived for the previous day, except commercial/political/social advertising and classifieds, “pure” photographs (out of publications and with no titles, headlines, captions).

If one TV/online piece contained references, dealing with two or more thematic sections, the data on that piece was accounted for each of the respective section.

At the same time, the sections had their particularities.

Thus, Section 7 “Activities of RA Government” included pieces not only dealing with the activities of the Government in whole, but also with each of the ministries.

The pieces about the acting parties of the country (their events, initiatives, statements of different nature regarding different themes, etc.) were included in the appropriate section, as well as in the Section 9 “Activities of political parties of Armenia”. Stories about the parties’ historical track were also recorded in this section.

Section 10 “Armenia and its representatives in CoE and other international institutions (OSCE, UN, NATO, etc.)” also included pieces dealing with the activities of Armenia in other structures, for example, established within the Commonwealth of Independent States, or in the Collective Security Treaty Organization.

Section 11 “Foreign policy of Armenia” listed only those pieces that told about the priorities, concepts and path of the foreign policy of Armenia.

In Section 46 “Entertainment TV pieces” TV programs dealing with cooking were also recorded.

Sections 30 “Natural disasters, incidents (car crashes, accidents, etc.)”, “Culture/arts” (31), “Education and science (with no direct link to health care and education situation in Armenia)” (32), “Sports” (34), “Classical music” (40), “Folk music” (41) contained pieces dealing with not only Armenia, but other countries as well.

The main unit of the study was a TV piece and online piece.

The following was understood to be a TV piece:

A unit of air, distinguished by subject, composition and design, i.e.:

- a. a separate story in the newscast;
- b. a separate communication, read by the program host;
- c. a part (section, story) of a program, dealing with various subjects/issues and distinguished by subject, composition and design (jingles, captions, etc.);
- d. announcements of stories were considered to be a part of the piece they referred to;
- e. program host text that introduced the TV piece (report, etc.) was considered to be a part of this piece (report, etc.).

At the same time,

- News/news and comment programs were divided into stories, each of which was considered as a separate piece;

- Current affairs/discussion programs were considered as follows:

1. If the program was dealing with one subject/discussion theme, it was considered as one separate piece;

2. If the program was tessellated, i.e., was divided into separate thematic blocks, each of these blocks was considered as one separate piece.

- Other programs of diverse profiles - each of these programs was considered as one separate piece.

The following was understood to be an online piece:

A unit of text, distinguished by subject, composition and design, i.e.:

- a. a separate article, news report, interview, etc.;
- b. announcements of publications were viewed to be a part of the publication they referred to;
- c. the headline/subheadline, the lead (i.e., the text after the headline/subheadline that introduced the publication and bore the main message of the article) were considered to be a part of the story they referred to;
- d. editorial comment on a certain publication, distinguished by words "Editor's note", "Editorial comment", etc., was considered to be a separate piece;
- e. photograph (pictures, cartoons, collages, illustrations, charts, etc.) that was not a part of a newspaper publication but contained a headline or a text or had a message was considered as a separate piece. If the photograph accompanied the newspaper publication, it was considered to be part of the piece it referred to.

In the course of monitoring the following was determined and recorded:

1. Total number of TV and online pieces.

2. The number of references to thematic sections in TV/online pieces. In each TV/online piece only one reference to each of the thematic sections was recorded. If one TV/online piece contained references to two or more thematic sections, each reference went for the appropriate section.

3. Determination of the presence form of the thematic section in the TV/online pieces:

- TV/online piece, fully dealing with the thematic section. The TV/online piece was considered to be fully dealing with the thematic section, even if it contained a reference to another subject, but the reference was linked to the main subject.

- TV/online piece, partly dealing with the thematic section. The TV/online piece was considered to be partly dealing with the thematic section, when the given TV/online piece equally (regardless of volume) referred to two or more topics. Each of these references was recorded separately as partly dealing with the respective topic. The same approach was applied towards the monitoring themes which were reflected in the TV/online piece along with other themes - not included in the monitoring subject.

All the categories above were measured in units.

ANALYSIS OF THE MONITORING RESULTS

THROUGHOUT THE MONITORING PERIOD (February 1 - March 15, 2011) a total number of TV/online pieces 37,838 was studied, of these 25,255 were aired by the seven TV channels, 2,951 - stored on the online versions of the two newspapers and 9,632 - on the three online publications.

TV CHANNELS

As noted in “Background Information” Chapter the news/news and comment programs, current affairs/discussion programs and the other programs of diverse profiles on 7 broadcast media were studied separately. From 25,255 of the TV pieces that made the monitoring subject, 18,233 (or 72.2%) account for news/news and comment programs, 452 (1.8%) - current affairs/discussion programs and 6,570 (26%) - other programs of diverse profiles.

News Coverage

In the 37-lines rating list of thematic preferences of the 7 TV channels studied “Foreign news” hold the first rank: 19.4% of the total number of TV pieces on news/news and comment programs of the 7 TV channels was accounted for this very thematic section. This section became the leader on all the TV channels, except for “Shoghakat”. (This channel has its own cultural-spiritual specific, which is the main component of all the programs, and will therefore be considered separately.) Among all the thematic sections “Foreign news” account for the one fifth of the aggregate news coverage. Moreover, in the majority of cases - 85.1% - the news/news and comment programs of all the 6 TV channels fully devoted their stories and reports to the foreign agenda, and only 14.9% were partly dealing with this thematic. Such an interest to this direction was first of all due to the revolutions spread in the Arab world. The TV channels not only widely covered the situation in the countries (Egypt, Tunisia, Libya, etc.), but also presented the position of the international community on this issue, including the ones of the USA, European Union, Iran and Turkey. The revolutionary trends in the Arab world also initiated a debate whether a similar social outbreak can take place in Armenia (anticipating, it should be noted that this topic was raised most frequently in newspapers and online publications).

The news/news and comment programs of the TV channels studied paid almost twice less attention to the theme “Activities of RA Government” (11.4% of the aggregate news coverage), which ranked the 2nd. At the same time, 78.2% of the references were partly dealing with this section (21.8% - fully). This is natural: as noted in the monitoring methodology, this section also included pieces that presented the activities of certain ministries, raised specific issues related to other directions (for example, education and health care situation in Armenia, etc.). Hence, these pieces were properly divided.

“Sports” took the third rank (10.9% of aggregate news coverage) in the rating of thematic preferences of the news programs. In the vast majority of cases (98.5%) these were pieces fully dealing with the thematic. At the same time, the newscasts of PTA First Channel, “Kentron” and “Shant” have a sports block with a special host, whereas “Armenia” and Second Channel do not have it; however here again the sports is on the upper ranks.

8.9% of aggregate news coverage was allocated to “Karabagh conflict resolution” (fourth rank), out of which roughly the one third accounts for “Yerkir Media”. However, taking into account that the Karabagh problem took the second rank on the current affairs/discussion programs of the TV channels studied, one can observe an overall vivid interest paid by broadcast media to this section. In addition to prompt information on the conflict resolution (visits of the OSCE Minsk Group Co-Chairs to the region, the meeting of Armenia, Azerbaijan, Russia Presidents in Sochi, etc.), the establishment of the PACE Subcommittee on Nagorno-Karabakh received extensive coverage both on news and on current affairs programs. Particularly, this gave floor to opinions that this structure is superfluous and replicates the Minsk Group. The report of the International Crisis Group on Mountainous Karabagh was also discussed. The Referendum on Independence of South Sudan, held in Sudan in January 2011, led to speculations by the Armenian politicians on the possibility of using this experience for settling the Karabagh issue. There were many pieces dedicated to the Commemoration Day of the February 27-29, 1988 tragic events in Sumgait. Particularly, active coverage was given to the events organized by the Armenian Diaspora in 2011 on these very days in many countries. In other words, while addressing the Karabagh conflict the news and current affairs programs of the broadcast media also referred to other themes, which led to the prevalence of pieces partly dealing with the theme over the ones fully dealing with it: 71.7% - news/news and comment programs and 86.7% - in current affairs/discussion programs. Notably, the frequency and the thematic nature of references to the Karabagh issue in newspapers and online publications studied were comparable to the ones in broadcast media.

The leading four sections of the news coverage are followed by the “Natural disasters, incidents (car crashes, accidents, etc.)” and “Culture/arts”, which have prevailed the 7-percent bar of the news coverage on the TV channels studied (7.7% and 7.5% of aggregate news coverage, respectively), unlike the “Activities of political parties of Armenia”, “Activities of RA President...” and “Regional developments...”.

85.5% pieces of the section “Natural disasters, incidents” were fully dealing with natural catastrophes and tragic events in the world, including Armenia. The heavy snowfalls occurred in Armenia in the beginning of February and their consequences (car crashes, closed roads, etc.) pulled this theme to the 5th rank. The rest 14.5% were pieces partly dealing with the theme. They also referred to other thematic sections, informing about the activities of the Government for overcoming snow drifts, activities of the RA Ministry of Emergency Situations in these and other cases, providing reference information on weather forecast in the country.

As regards “Activities of political parties of Armenia” (seventh rank, 6.4% of aggregate news coverage), 77.7% pieces were partly dealing with the section, 22.3% - fully. Like in the case of Karabagh conflict resolution, the media displayed more vivid attention to the parties on current affairs/discussion programs, where the theme got the third ranking and where all the materials, except for the 2 (93 from 95), were partly dealing with the topic. Since the start of the monitoring both on news and current affairs/discussion programs the activities of the parties were actively addressed by the media due to the upcoming 2012-2013 national elections. Hence, the party initiatives on amending the RA Electoral Code were presented; discussions about what parties and president candidates will run in the 2012-2013 elections were held. The most active interest was paid to the issues whether the ruling coalition will run for the parliamentary elections with a fusion ticket, and who will the “Prosperous Armenia” support at the presidential elections. The latter stipulated the attention of the broadcast media to the February 12, 2011 Congress of the party. It should be noted that the same piece on the Congress of “Prosperous Armenia” (in the form of a special report) went on the air of “Kentron”, “Shant”, “Yerkir Media” TV channels. The very three TV channels aired the same stories about the events organized by “Prosperous Armenia” and its leader, prominent businessman Gagik Tsarukian on February 19, the Day of Saint Sargis, and on Women’s Day, March 8. Finally, the same pieces on other events of that party and its leader were showed by two TV channels - “Kentron” and “Shant”. The presentation form of all these pieces (as editorials), their demonstration on the air of at once several TV channels raises doubts. The most intensive in covering the activities of Gagik Tsarukian was “Kentron”. Thus, in addition to the pieces on newscasts, throughout the monitoring period 63 special reports dealing with the activities of Gagik Tsarukian and his party, and 9 stories telling about the February 12, 2011 Congress of “Prosperous Armenia” party were aired by that TV channel.

71.9% news pieces about the “Activities of RA President and his Office, information on people whom media relate to the RA President” were partly dealing with the thematic section (fully - 28.1%). The section holds the eight rank (6.1% of aggregate news coverage). At the same time, in the vast majority of cases prompt information on the activities of the State’s Head was provided, the second aspect was not being addressed.

6% of aggregate news coverage (ninth rank) was allocated to “Regional developments: Iran, Turkey (out of the Armenian-Turkish relations context), South Caucasus’ countries (Azerbaijan - out of the Karabagh conflict context), activities of Russia in the South Caucasus”. The correlation of pieces, fully (42.8%) and partly (57.2%) dealing with this thematic is almost the same. In fact, the newscasts of the TV channels studied equally presented both the developments in the region and the information related or linked to Armenia (say, Armenian-Georgian, Armenian-Iranian visits, initiatives, etc.).

The ten most intensively covered themes are concluded by the “Domestic and foreign policy of USA, Armenia-USA relations” section (5.8% of aggregate news coverage). 72.2% pieces of this section were partly, and 27.8% were fully dealing with the theme. They, particularly, presented the positions of the USA on a number of issues, including on the developments in the Arab world, different types of Armenian-US relations, as well as the dispatches of the USA diplomats released by Wikileaks.

The rest 27 thematic sections took from 4.3% to 0.2% of the aggregate news coverage. And there was never a reference to the “Foreign policy of Armenia” section (as noted, this section did not include pieces on the foreign policy activities of the country, but priorities, concepts, etc.).

In terms of separate broadcast media the picture is as follows: the ranking is headed by “Yerkir Media” - 24.1% of the total number of pieces on news/news and comment programs of all the 7 TV channels studied, it is followed by “Kentron” - 18%, “Shant” - 15.2%, PTA First Channel - 13.9%, Second Armenian TV channel - 13.8%, “Armenia” - 13.1% and “Shoghakat” - 1.8%.

Among all the TV channels studied “Yerkir Media” is distinguished by a saturation of news programs. For one and a half month of the monitoring there have been 470 issues of the main newscast, in average - 11 in a day (to compare, the maximum number of news programs on the other channels did not prevail 6). The morning program of “Yerkir Media”, “Barev Yerkir” was also claimed as a news and comment. The following 5 thematic sections were the most intensively covered on the news programs of “Yerkir Media”: “Foreign news”, “Karabagh conflict resolution”, “Activities of RA Government”, “Activities of political parties of Armenia” and “Culture/arts”. Quite often this TV channel referred to the “Life of the Armenian Diaspora” (seventh place), particularly through the weekly news program “Voice of Armenians in Russia” telling about the developments in the Armenian Diaspora in Russia.

The leading themes on the news/news and comment programs of “Kentron” were: “Foreign news”, “Sports”, “Activities of RA Government”, “Regional developments...” and “Karabagh conflict resolution”.

The top five thematic of the news coverage of “Shant” are: “Foreign news”, “Sports”, “Natural disasters, incidents (car crashes, accidents, etc.)”, “Activities of RA Government” and “Reference information” (in the majority of cases these were weather forecasts aired during the newscasts of the TV channel).

PTA First Channel the following themes were the most covered on news programs: “Foreign news”, “Sports”, “Activities of RA Government”, “Karabagh conflict resolution” and “Activities of RA President...”. It takes note that the public broadcaster is distinguished by a quite detailed coverage of the “Activities of RA National Assembly” (fifteenth place), to which seven newscasts of “Haylur. Parliament” and “Parliamentary Week” were dedicated.

Second Armenian TV Channel on its news/news and comment programs most frequently addressed the following sections: “Foreign news”, “Reference information”, “Activities of RA Government”, “Sports”, “Karabagh conflict resolution”. The second place of the “Reference information” section is primarily due to a large amount of pieces on the main newscast of the TV channel “Lraber” which informed the viewers about the operation of public services (say, about preventive cutoffs of electricity, water, etc.). Besides, “Lraber” had special weather forecasts blocks.

The leading five sections on “Armenia” TV channel are: “Foreign news”, “Activities of RA Government”, “Sports”, “Domestic and foreign policy of USA, Armenia-USA relations” and “Karabagh conflict resolution”. Notably, information on the USA, ranked the fourth, was presented through the pieces of the “Voice of America” TV and Radio company, aired during the main newscast of “Armenia”, “Zham”. Moreover, the “Voice of America” Sunday news magazine was aired by the TV channel and told about the developments in the USA, including in the US Armenian Diaspora.

As noted above, “Shoghakat” TV channel has a pure cultural-spiritual nature which affects the majority of the programs, including news programs that inform about the events in the Armenian Apostolic Church, culture, arts, etc. Out of 337 news pieces of this channel, 213 and 138 references were accordingly dedicated to two sections - “Theme of spiritual values, issues related to the church, religious, national and other minorities, youth movements in Armenia” and “Culture/arts”. The next third section “Education and science (with no direct link to health care and education situation in Armenia)” received only 38 references.

Coverage on Current Affairs/Discussion Programs

A distinctive feature of the thematic directions on current affairs/discussion programs of the TV channels studied was their presence form: the references made to all the 36 sections were partly. The broadcast media were the most active in covering the following three themes: “Activities of RA Government” (27.9% of the total number of pieces in current affairs/discussion programs of the TV channels studied), “Karabagh conflict resolution” (23.2%), “Activities of political parties of Armenia” (21%). In other words, more than 70% of the overall current affairs/discussion programs were allocated to these themes (the aspects in which they were discussed are given above, in “News Coverage”). The fourth place is taken by “Regional developments: Iran, Turkey (out of the Armenian-Turkish relations context), South Caucasus’ countries (Azerbaijan - out of the Karabagh conflict context), activities of Russia in the South Caucasus” (14.2%).

All the abovementioned four thematic sections are the top ten themes which media paid the most attention on both news/news and comment programs and current affairs/discussion programs. The “Culture/arts” section is also among them.

Further, the picture varies. The second group of the five most intensively covered themes on current affairs/discussion programs lists: “Price increase (on consumer goods, public services, etc.), low wages, pensions and welfares in Armenia ” - 13.9% of the total number of pieces in current affairs/discussion programs of the TV channels studied (fifth rank), “Activities of RA National Assembly”- 13.1% (sixth rank), “Theme of spiritual values, issues related to the church, religious, national and other minorities, youth movements in Armenia” - 11.5% (seventh rank), “Corruption, monopoly, oligopoly and unfair competition issues in Armenia” - 11.3% (eight rank), the abovementioned “Culture/arts” - 10.6% (ninth rank), “Upcoming national elections in Armenia (2012 parliamentary elections and 2013 presidential elections), amendments to RA Electoral Code” - 8.6% (tenth rank). As one can observe, the majority of the listed thematic (social and corruption issues, upcoming national electoral campaigns) are of public significance, therefore they are referred to in a discussion format, which - unlike news programs - provides a possibility for a more detailed and thorough analysis of urgent issues. Notably, the “Foreign policy of Armenia” became the outsider not only on news but on current affairs/discussion programs of all TV channels studied. Meanwhile, the foreign policy path, priorities of Armenia, particularly given the unresolved Karabagh conflict, is not a less significant issue.

Among all the broadcast media studied “Yerkir Media” is distinguished not only by highly extensive news coverage, but also by its intensiveness in current affairs/discussion programs. 38.1% of the total number of pieces in current affairs/discussion programs of the seven TV channels studied was accounted for that TV channel. “Kentron” displayed the same activeness in terms of this indicator - 25.7%. Thus, within the 1.5 month of the monitoring there were more than 60 issues of only the main, brand discussion programs - “Yerkri Hartse” (“Yerkir Media”), “Urvagits” (“Kentron”) - on each of the TV channels. The two broadcasters are followed by the PTA First Channel (19.5%), which - like “Yerkir Media”- stands out for the variety of its current affairs/discussion programs. The gap between these three and the other two national TV channels of general profile is considerable - Second Armenian TV Channel (8%) and “Shant” (5.1%). The list is concluded by “Shoghakat” (3.8%), which, as already mentioned, is of spiritual-cultural profile and has only one discussion program (“Third Century”). At the same time, the range of issues discussed on that program is quite comparable to the thematic coverage of current affairs/discussion programs of Second Armenian TV Channel and “Shant”. In light of the above “Armenia” is particularly outstanding: while being granted a license as a national TV channel of general profile, it does not air a single current affairs/discussion program.

Coverage on Other Programs of Diverse Profiles

“Culture/arts”, “Soap operas” and “Entertainment TV pieces” are the sections that hold the first ranks in the 47-points rating list of thematic preferences of the TV channels studied. Out of the 1,139 references to “Culture/arts” (or 17.3% of the total number of TV pieces in other programs of diverse profiles of the 7 TV channels studied), 50.7% were fully dealing with the theme and 49.3% - partly. Hence, the aggregate airtime contained an equal number of programs, fully devoted to the issues of culture/arts, and programs in which these issues were reflected along with others. The second in terms of popularity on the aggregate airtime are “Soap operas”, making 16.1% of the total number of TV pieces in other programs of diverse profiles. The leading trio is concluded by “Entertainment TV pieces” - 15.1%. 85.8% of this section included programs of purely entertainment nature and 14.2% - programs which along with other themes referred to entertainment. The “Theme of spiritual values, issues related to the church, religious, national and other minorities, youth movements in Armenia” that ranks the fourth is immediately behind the leading trio (14.5%). The high rating of this section is primarily due to the extensive coverage by “Shoghakat”, which has accounted for 80% of the total number of references to this section of aggregate airtime.

The second group of the most popular themes lists: “Reference information (weather forecast, exchange rates, etc.)” - 10.3%, “Films (feature and TV films)” - 8.8%, “Popular Armenian music” - 7.5%, “Cartoons” - 4.5%, “Education and science (with no direct link to health care and education situation in Armenia)” - 4.1%, “Popular foreign music” - 3.5%, “Sports” - 3.3%. The majority of pieces were fully dealing with all the abovementioned sections, except “Education and science...” (where the proportion of pieces partly dealing with the theme is a little higher). It takes note that 29 partly references to the “Cartoons” were made on the air of Second Armenian TV Channel. Its children’s program “Multiknik” was made of two parts: the first one was educational, the second - showed cartoons.

The other themes took up to 1.6% and less of the aggregate airtime. And not once there was a reference to the “Upcoming national elections in Armenia (2012 parliamentary elections and 2013 presidential elections), amendments to RA Electoral Code” and the “Foreign policy of Armenia” on other programs of diverse profiles.

Among the seven TV channels other programs of diverse profiles were more frequent on the air of “Shoghakat” - 24.7% of the total number of TV pieces in other programs of diverse profiles. Being loyal to its ideology, the TV channel prioritizes the spiritual values, issues regarding religion, primarily the Armenian Apostolic Church (46.9% of the total number of pieces on programs of diverse profiles of “Shoghakat”), and the cultural component (33.3%). Moreover, spirituality is emphasized actually in all the programs of “Shoghakat” of different nature. Program intermissions quoting the Bible are constantly aired by the TV channel. Besides, “Shoghakat” is the sole of the TV channels studied which has periodically broadcast classical music concerts, televised versions of operas, rarely of ballets.

“Shoghakat” is followed by “Yerkir Media” with 17.1% of the total number of TV pieces in other programs of diverse profiles of the aggregate airtime. Here, the biggest number of references was made to the section “Culture/arts” (27% of the total number of TV pieces in other programs of diverse profiles on the given channel). At the same time, a significant part of pieces fully dealing with this section constitute the program intermissions on Armenian culture (national musical instruments, dances). The “Reference information” section (21.9%), which is on the second rank, mainly included issues of the weather forecast programs “Meteo TV”. The leading trio is concluded by the “Theme of spiritual values...” (9.9%), which mostly includes a cycle of program intermissions, “Ko Tesake” (quotations of famous people about the particularities of the Armenian mentality, character, traditions, etc.) and “Ko Lezun” (quotations of famous people about the purity of the Armenian language).

The rating list on “Armenia” TV channel (14.5% of the total number of TV pieces on other programs of diverse profiles of the aggregate airtime) is headed by the entertainment programs (28.2% of the total number of pieces of other programs of diverse profiles of the given channel) and soap operas (23.1%). Among all the TV channels studied the “Intellectual TV shows” section was solely referred to by “Armenia” (the domestic version of the intellectuals’ program “Who? Where? When?”) and by PTA First Channel (11.9% of the total number of TV pieces in other programs of diverse profiles of the aggregate airtime), which started to air the quiz “Armenian Knight”, contest between school teams. The list of programs of diverse profiles of the public broadcaster is headed by the soap operas (33.2% of the total number of TV pieces on other programs of diverse profiles on the given channel), and is followed by feature/TV films (14.2%), popular Armenian music (12.3%), culture/arts (10.1%). “Theme of spiritual values...” was mainly addressed through the program intermissions cycle “Armenian” (quotations of prominent people about spiritual heritage, etc.).

Second Armenian TV Channel (10.8% of the total number of TV pieces in other programs of diverse profiles of the aggregate airtime) makes an emphasis on entertainment programs (46% of the total number of TV pieces in other programs of diverse profiles on the given channel), popular Armenian music (27.3%) and feature/TV films (15.5%). On the programs of diverse profiles of “Shant” (10.6% of the total number of TV pieces in other programs of diverse profiles of the aggregate airtime) soap operas are prevailing (52.6% of the total number of TV pieces in other programs of diverse profiles on the given channel), which are followed - with a huge gap - by programs of entertainment nature (21.8%). The first place on the air of “Kentron” (10.3% of the total number of TV pieces in other programs of diverse profiles of the aggregate airtime) is taken by reference information (24.6% of the total number of TV pieces in other programs of diverse profiles on the given channel), presented through “Meteo TV” weather forecast programs, which were as a rule aired after “Epikentron” newscast. The sports programs (14.6%) and cartoons (12.2%) come behind.

NEWSPAPERS

As noted above in the “Background Information” Chapter, among the print media the online versions of the national newspapers, “Aravot” and “Golos Armenii” were monitored. Notably, the content of the online and print versions of these newspapers are mostly identical, hence, the content studied overall matches in the both versions.

Out of the 38 thematic sections the biggest number of references were dedicated to “Sports” (10.9% of the total number of pieces of the two newspapers studied), and they were all fully dealing with the thematic, except one piece of “Aravot”, published on February 1, 2011 (interview with a then-famous boxer Israel Hakobkoxhian, in which besides the sports, issues of human rights and freedom of expression violations in Armenia were also considered). The second rank is held by “Activities of RA Government” (9.6%), in which 58.8% of the references were partly dealing with the topic and 41.2% - fully. The same picture is observed in the “Activities of political parties of Armenia” section (8.9%), which is on the third rank and where 53.3% of the references were partly and 44.7% - fully dealing with the theme. In other words, with a slight difference, the newspapers studied somewhat equally made pure references to the activities of the Government and parties, as well as considered it along with other themes. On the contrary, when addressing the “Karabagh conflict resolution” (8.2% - fourth rank), the majority of pieces were fully dealing with this theme - 57.4%, and 42.6% - partly.

The top five is concluded by the “Foreign news” section (7.2%), where the vast majority of pieces (90.6%) fully related to the ongoing developments in the world.

At the same time, it should be noted that both of the newspapers studied, unlike the TV channels, have referred to all of the 38 thematic sections with a certain frequency.

Out of the 2,951 pieces of the two newspapers studied, 63.2% are accounted for “Aravot” and 36.8% - “Golos Armenii”. On one hand, this gap may be due to the periodicity of the newspapers (5 times a week and three times a week, respectively), but, on the other hand, the paper format of “Golos” is A2 , whereas “Aravot” is A3.

“Aravot” was the most frequent in addressing the “Activities of political parties of Armenia” (10.7% of the total number of pieces in the newspaper), “Foreign news” (9.8%), “Sports” (9%), “Activities of RA Government” (8.9%) and “Culture/arts” (6.1%). Among all the media studied “Aravot” was the only which has persistently referred to the “Issues of freedom of speech and media, including the broadcast digitalization process in Armenia”. This section was in the list of the top 10 themes by “Aravot”, whereas in all the other media studied it was not even in the top 20. Moreover, the daily not only provided prompt news of the media field (court proceedings, incidents with journalists, etc.), but also tracked the issues regarding broadcast digitalization. Thus, since February 17, 2011 “Aravot” started a cycle, which examined the applications of the digital broadcast competition winners. (The competitions were announced by the National Commission on Television and Radio in December 2010.) The cycle author, “Aravot” observer Anna Israelian, had requested the applications copies from the NCTR and had analyzed the 25 competition packages, except the ones of rebroadcasters. Another example of covering a certain topic were the February 19, 2011 “Aravot” pages dealing with the youth and related issues, and presenting different youth movements active in Armenia. The youth movements are included in the section “Theme of spiritual values, issues related to the church, religious, national and other minorities, youth movements in Armenia”. Nonetheless, the studied media pieces manifest that references made to this section regard moral issues, present the Armenian Apostolic Church, and rarely address different minorities or youth movements.

“Karabagh conflict resolution ” is the section that received the most frequent coverage in “Golos Armenii” (14.3% of the total number of pieces of the newspaper), and most of the pieces were fully devoted to the theme (63.9%, partly - 36.1%). The Karabagh conflict, Armenian-Azerbaijani relations and other aspects are permanently in the scope of attention of “Golos Armenii”, as the previous studies show. Within the monitoring period the newspaper was also active while referring to the sports thematic (14.2%). This section is followed by the “Activities of RA Government ” (10.8%), “Regional developments: Iran, Turkey (out of the Armenian-Turkish relations context), South Caucasus’ countries (Azerbaijan - out of the Karabagh conflict context), activities of Russia in the South Caucasus” (9.1%) and “Culture/arts” (7.6%).

ONLINE PUBLICATIONS

As noted in “Background Information” Chapter, the study covered three online publications - 1in.am (<http://1in.am>), Lragir.am (<http://www.lragir.am>), Panorama.am (<http://www.panorama.am>).

The leader among 38 thematic sections is “Regional developments: Iran, Turkey (out of the Armenian-Turkish relations context), South Caucasus’ countries (Azerbaijan - out of the Karabagh conflict context), activities of Russia in the South Caucasus” section (13.9% of the total number of pieces of the three online publications studied). The high proportion of pieces, fully dealing with the given section (80.2%, with 19.8% partly references), also manifests the extensive interest of news sites towards this theme. This primarily regards Turkey and Iran. A particular intent attention was allocated to Iran during the February 14-15, 2011 protest actions in the country due to the social revolt that broke in the Arab world. Hence, only within February 15 out of 78 pieces regarding the region, one third (24) presented the Iranian developments, some pieces examined the possible consequences of these actions and how this situation might affect the traditionally friendly Armenian-Iranian relations.

“Foreign news” (12.4%) and “Activities of political parties of Armenia” (12.3%) come right after this section. 60% of the pieces were partly dealing with the political parties. This is due to the extensive coverage of developments in which the parties, especially opposition ones, were active role-players. Say, the protest actions of the drivers in Gyumri, Vanadzor, Tavush, caused by the governmental decision on mandatory custom clearance of vehicles with Georgian tags, were also referred to from the perspective of political parties involved in the actions. The same picture was observed in the coverage of the ban on street trading that raised a burst of public indignation. For example, the role of the “Heritage” party in fighting for the rights of the drivers was stressed, the legislative initiatives of “Heritage” parliamentary faction on amending the Customs Code was mentioned, the opinions of party leaders on the violence of constitutional rights of the protesters, primarily on freedom of movement were voiced. The ban on street trading was also commented through the party statements about social insecurity, the state interference to freedom of assembly, and numerous arrests of activists. The detention of the RA National Assembly deputies from “Heritage” party in front of the RA Government during the protest action in Yerevan against the ban on street trading received a wide outcry. The criminal proceedings instituted against the brother of RA NA deputy Zaruhi Postanjian (“Heritage” party) were not less consistently addressed to. There were opinions published as to in this way the authorities are trying to put it across the opposition activist Zaruhi Postanjian.

In other words, the fourth in the list “Activities of RA Government” (9.9%) section, along with official information, contained many pieces that criticized the measures taken by the executive power which exacerbated social tensions. The February 25, 2011 interview of the RA Prime-Minister to some major TV channels was criticized by the online publications studied. The meeting of Catholicos of All Armenians Garegin II with the RA Minister of Agriculture was covered in an ironic tone.

The fifth and the sixth ranks of the thematic preferences of the online publications are held by the sections “Karabagh conflict resolution” (8%) and “Sports” (7.5%). The other themes received up to 5.7% and less.

The news online publications, as well as the newspapers studied, have referred to all of the thematic sections in a certain frequency, except the “Entertainment pieces (horoscopes, quizzes, humor, literature, etc.)”.

Out of the 9,632 pieces of the three online publications almost the half, 48% was accounted for 1in.am, 33.3% - for Panorama.am and 18.7% - for Lragir.am.

“Regional developments...” is the most widely covered theme by 1in.am (19.2% of the total number of pieces of the online publication); the majority of the pieces were fully dealing with the thematic (82.6%, partly - 17.4%). The second and third ranks are taken by “Foreign news” (16.8%) and “Activities of political parties of Armenia” (12.3%).

The biggest number of references made by Panorama.am was devoted to “Activities of RA Government” (12.1% of total number of pieces of the online publication), “Sports” (11.7%), “Regional developments...” (11.2%) and “Activities of political parties of Armenia” (10.6%).

“Activities of political parties of Armenia ” (15.2% of total number of pieces of the online publication), “Activities of RA Government” (12.6%) and “Foreign news” (12.4%) are the top rated thematic preferences of Lragir.am.

GENERAL TRENDS OF THEMATIC DIRECTIONS OF THE MEDIA STUDIED

In the “Life of the Armenian Diaspora” section, ranked the 10-13 in the thematic preferences of the media studied, the RA President’s Serzh Sargsian’s initiative on creating a bicameral parliament was actively covered. The latter would enable the Armenian Diaspora to be represented in the legislative body of the country. The pros and cons for the initiative were voiced out. Many pieces were devoted to the story about the return to his roots and acquisition of Armenian identity of a man leaving in Dersim and visiting Yerevan. The information on the arrest of the criminal group, “Armenian Power”, by the USA authorities in California was accompanied by some views of the US Armenian Diaspora; several media draw parallels with the case of another Armenian gang (“Case of Pzo”), disclosed by the US authorities in 2010.

The stagnation in the rapprochement process between Yerevan and Ankara affected media coverage of “Rapprochement between Armenia and Turkey (opening of Armenian-Turkish borders, establishment of diplomatic relations, official contacts and contacts between civic institutions)” section, which fell in the second ten and more behind of the media thematic preferences. Particularly, during the first monitoring week (beginning of February 2011) the attacks of Turkish hackers on the Armenian websites made the news. There was an opinion that by hacking the Armenian sites and denying the Armenian Genocide, the Turks strive for the inverse effect: attract the attention of those who never knew anything or has not paid any interest to the 1915 Issue. The decision of the Kars municipality on removing the monument in honor of Armenian-Turkish amity also received significant coverage. The Armenian-Turkish Protocols ratification was considered in terms of the necessity of their withdrawal from the RA National Assembly’s general agenda. The position of the Turkish expert stating that the absence of high-level meetings procrastinate the Armenian-Turkish rapprochement was voiced. Osman Koker, the Turkish writer, author of the book “Armenians in Turkey 100 Years Ago”, was quoted. The latter had noted that such books contribute to the normalization process.

Media paid much less attention to the theme “Migration from Armenia”. In the vast majority of cases it was mentioned in passing, in the context of other issues, mainly social. A number of pieces mentioned about the acting Russian governmental program on assisting the resettlement to Russia. This gave floor to an opinion that such initiatives increase the flow of migration from Armenia.

Comparing to the migration processes, the media studied more often referred to the “Price increase (on consumer goods, public services, etc.), low wages, pensions and welfares in Armenia”. However, as a rule, these references were caused by prompt information. The stories dealing with the activities of the Government, certain ministries and agencies talked about the possible price increase on gas, sugar, metro fare; the heavy social situation was mentioned in the statement of opposition parties, views of party figures.

The outsider on the TV channels, “Foreign policy of Armenia”, received 11 references, mainly partly, by online publications and newspapers, primarily by “Aravot”. Hence, a party leader criticized the foreign policy path of Armenia under the former Minister of Foreign Affairs. The Armenian foreign priorities were considered by the acting Foreign Affairs Minister in the context of Armenian participation in the EU Eastern Partnership, as well as by the newly-appointed RA Ambassador in Georgia - in the context of Armenian-Georgian relations. One of the articles noted about the necessity of carrying out an autonomous foreign policy, independent from Russia. Another article criticized the foreign policy trends in Armenia and Mountainous Karabagh, the insufficient qualification of diplomats was being stressed.

CONCLUSION

1. The news/news and comment programs of all the six national TV channels of general profile displayed the greatest interest to foreign news. This section accounted for the one fifth of the aggregate news coverage.
2. The activities of RA Government, Karabagh conflict resolution and activities of Armenian parties were the most frequently considered on the current affairs/discussion TV programs (more than 70% of the aggregate coverage).
3. The three abovementioned themes (governmental and party activities, Karabagh issue) along with regional developments (Iran, Turkey, South Caucasus, partially Russia) and culture/arts were in the top ten of the news and discussion TV programs.
4. None of the seven TV channels studied made a single reference in its news and discussion programs to the concepts, priorities of the foreign policy of Armenia.
5. In the other TV programs of diverse profiles culture/arts, soap operas and entertainment pieces are the leading directions.
6. Among all the broadcast media studied “Yerkir Media” is distinguished by its extensive news coverage. This TV channel, as well as “Kentron” stand out for their intensity of current affairs/discussion programs. The diversity of these programs is also typical for the First Channel of Public Television of Armenia. In comparison to these broadcasters, the broadcast schedules of the Second Armenian TV Channel and “Shant” are hardly focused on current affairs discourse. “Armenia”, being a national TV channel of general profile just like the others, does not have any discussion program.
7. Among all the broadcast media studied “Shoghakat” keeps aloof, as a spiritual-cultural TV channel. Being loyal to its profile, the TV channel prioritizes spiritual values, issues related to religion, primarily - the Armenian Apostolic Church. Moreover, spirituality is emphasized actually in all the programs of “Shoghakat” of different nature, including newscasts mainly covering the events in the Armenian Apostolic Church. At the same time, the range of issues considered on the “Third Century”, the only “Shoghakat” discussion program, is quite comparable to the thematic coverage of current affairs programs of Second Armenian TV Channel and “Shant”.

8. In the aggregate coverage of the two newspapers studied the main focus was made on the sports, activities of RA Government, activities of political parties of Armenia, Karabagh conflict resolution and foreign news. Among all the media studied “Aravot” was the only which has persistently referred to the issues of freedom of speech and media, particularly to the broadcast digitalization process in Armenia. Within the monitoring period the Karabagh conflict, Armenian-Azerbaijani relations and other aspects were permanently in the scope of attention of “Golos Armenii”, just like before.

9. Regional developments (Iran, Turkey, South Caucasus, partially Russia) were the top thematic preferences of the three online media studied. This section received particular attention of the news portals, primarily due to the developments in Turkey and Iran. The online media were not less actively concentrating on foreign news, activities of Armenian parties, and activities of RA Government. Overall, 1in.am, Lragir.am and Panorama.am stand out, firstly from the TV channels, for both wide coverage of various news and readiness of voicing out diverse opinions, including critical ones.

10. Unlike the broadcast media, the scope of themes in online publications and newspapers is more extensive and diverse. In other words, the present study, as many other previous ones, came to prove once again that online and print media have a higher level of pluralism and are more inclined to criticism.
